Five New Senators From Province of Quebec Appointed

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker of House of Commons; Mr. E. W. Tobin, Mr. J. E. Prevost, Mr. George Parent and Mr. L. A. Wilson Will Fill Vacancies in Canadian Senate

Two Appointments Yet To Be Made by Cabinet

OTTAWA, June 3.—Appointment of five new Senators from the Province of Quebec was announced following a lengthy meeting of the Cabinet today. Those appointed to the Senate are: Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the House of Commons; Mr. E. W. Tobin, Federal member for Richmond-Wolfe; Mr. J. E. Prevost, member for Terrebonne; Mr. George Parent, member for Quebec West, and Mr. L. A. Wilson, member for Val-de-Rouville-Soulanges.

In making the announcement, Prime Minister Mackenzie King explained that the fifth Quebec vacancy in the Senate arose through the resignation of Senator Louis Lavergne, of Kennebec.

It is understood that ill health is the cause for the resignation of Senator Lavergne.

ALL FORMER MEMBERS

Mr. King also stated that it had been the rule in the past not to appoint members of Parliament to the Senate. There had been some exceptions, but the general rule had been followed for some time. This explained why all those appointed at the present time were former members of Parliament who had held seats up to the date of dissolution.

The appointments made today follow closely along lines already forecast. All those appointed are old members of Parliament who have been mentioned as probabilities for Senate seats.

Police Unable to Explain Strange Vandalism Wave

PORTLAND, Ore., June 3.—Police today said they were unable to explain the strange wave of vandalism which broke out here late yesterday, in which tires of more than thirty automobiles were slashed beyond repair.

In all cases the tire-slashing was similar, a razor blade, apparently having been used.

Two of the automobiles were in one neighborhood.

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE WORKMEN

TAMAKA, Pa., June 3.—Three workmen were killed when the mixing house of the Alcoa Company plant at Tamaka, seven miles south of here, was wrecked by an explosion early today. The victims were the only men employed in the mixing house which was blown to pieces by the blast.

INSURANCE OF HEALTH SET AS OBJECTIVE

TORONTO, Ont., June 3.—A state health insurance system as a means of curtailing a large percentage of the $300,000,000 loss of productive capacity in Canada annually from preventable illness was strongly recommended for support by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in the report of the industrial relations committee here today at the fifty-ninth annual meeting of the association.

The report cited findings of a special commission appointed by the British Columbia Government in support of the recommendation and stated experience in England, Germany and the United States shows that sickness causes more loss of time than all other causes put together.

The King Thanks People for Their Loyal Sentiments

OTTAWA, June 3.—Replying to a message of congratulation sent on behalf of the Government and people of Canada, His Majesty the King today cabled Premier Mackenzie King as follows:

"I sincerely thank you, the Government and people of Canada for your greetings and good wishes on this anniversary of my birthday. I much appreciate the loyal sentiments to which your message gives expression."

Legislators Undismayed by Squall on Journey

NORWAY HOUSE, Man., June 3.—Undismayed by a sudden squall which separated their canoe party, members of Manitoba's Legislature today continued on their journey along the old voyageurs' trail to Churchill, on Hudson Bay. Five members of the House and a number of Northerners were forced to travel north of Lake Winnipeg by the unexpected storm.

A relief party, sent from Norway House, at the north end of Lake Winnipeg, found the missing canoeists camping on the ice of Goose Island. The group returned to Norway House, and today's party left by canoe for Sea River Falls. Members who were temporarily missing were Hon. W. H. Chubb, Hon. D. G. McKenzie, Mr. S. J. Farmer, Mr. J. P. Lawman and Mr. A. J. McPeck.

They were under the guidance of Mr. Harvey Webber, of the P.A.S., who is conveying the travelers, and a half-dozen of his aides.

GETS MILLION UNDER WILL OF DISTILLER

Mr. J. A. Dewar Inherits Great Part of Vast Fortune of Famous British Sportsman

FORMERLY LIVED IN THIS CITY

"How does a man feel when he learns he is heir to a million pounds sterling?"

Mr. John Arthur Dewar, who formerly resided in this city, when he represented the great distillery firm controlled by his uncle, Lord Dewar, has just inherited that sum, free of legacy duty. The famous distiller, sportsman, raconteur and wit left the money to his nephew, who, he said in his will, "went to Canada when quite young, and carried out successfully all my business transactions there."

Mr. Dewar says the last thing he will do is to retire from business. "If you stop work you might as well be dead," he said, when notified of his great wealth. "It is work that makes life worth living."

Mr. Dewar, who is thirty-eight years of age, said he was old enough not to be excited about a million pounds, and expressed his intention of carrying on his uncle's racing stable.

"It would take twenty years to collect another string of horses like that," he added.

Mr. Dewar, who left here in June, 1914, after a residence of about two years, is still associated with a syndicate interested in Victoria investments. Those who knew him here speak of him as a good man of business. Latterly he has been interested with his uncle's business, with offices in the Haymarket, London, England.

TELKWA, June 3.—The Telkwa Hotel was destroyed by fire this afternoon and was a total loss, with several adjoining buildings. The balance of the town was saved by strenuous work of a bucket brigade. Members of the Telkwa fire party lost all their personal effects. No persons were injured.

Lord Thomson States Air Lines of British Empire Are Making Big Expansion

By GEORGE HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 3.—The air lines of the British Empire are expanding rapidly and rank second only, in mileage, to those of the United States, declared the Rt. Hon. Lord Thomson, Secretary of State for Air, in the House of Lords today, during a broad and inspiring review of the Empire's accomplishments in the world of flying.

Lord Thomson predicted an era of great aerial expansion within the Empire in the next year or so. He stated there were now about 22,000 miles of regular air routes. He hoped the end of 1931 would see an extension of the Indian route towards Australia, but the date for the completion of this plan, he said, rested largely with the Government of Australia.

The Cape-to-Cairo route should be completed as far as the great lakes of Central Africa by the end of this year, and in full operation by the Spring of 1931.

THE ATLANTIC AIRWAYS
Lord Thomson praised the opening up of what was called the Atlantic Airways in the Western Atlantic. Such a development, although started, could only be carried through with the co-operation of the Canadian Government, and the most sympathetic response was coming from Canada. A great deal of work had been done by the consultative committee established in July, said the Secretary of State for Air. They had reported favorably on the Atlantic Airways scheme and he was fairly confident now that they should be able to do something along this line.

Trouble With Italian Agitation in Southern France Leads to Expulsion of Leader

PROPAGANDA IS ALSO IN CORSICA

PARIS, France, June 3.—The French Government has issued a writ of expulsion against Stefano de Martino, said to be the commissioner of Italian Fascist immigrants living in the region of Nice. He is accused of having arranged a voyage to Rome for two immigrant Italian groups to represent Nice in the cortege of the Italian provinces at the recent wedding of the Prince of Piedmont.

CHILDREN ORGANIZED

The French bitterly resent the implication that the Italians regard the region of Nice as terra irredenta of Italy. French war veterans' associations in Southern France have been conducting an agitation against alleged Italian Fascist activities there. One of the war veterans' associations announced that if the French Government failed to act, they would take matters into their own hands.

HALF MILLION MEN BATTLE IN CHINA

Strong Resistance Marks Engagements Between Northern Alliance and Nationalists on Widely-Extended Front, Northern Honan Being Spearhead; Struggle Threatens to Involve Hankow

Power Magazine Blows Up at Tsinan, Killing Many Guards

SHANGHAI, June 3.—Rebel armies on four battlefronts today challenged the supremacy of the Nationalist Government of China. Fighting, which began May 8 with a few thousand men, has reached huge dimensions, more than half a million troops being engaged. Strengthened by reinforcements, the Northern Alliance armies flung themselves at the Nationalists today in a general offensive along the Hainan-Tsengkwan Railroad in Northern Honan Province. In this area it is said at least 400,000 men are fighting to determine the future Government of China.

The Nationalists, beaten back to Kweichow, Honan, by fierce rebel onslaughts a few days ago, advanced to meet the rebel attack. Routed by a few days' respite from battle, their numbers increased to 150,000 men, the Nationalists were reported to have responded to orders of President Chang Kai-Shek for a general advance.

Other reports, however, persistently asserted that Ching Kai-Shek, the general who led the Cantonese northward to Peiping a few years ago in a victorious march that established the Nationalist Government at Nanking, was wounded while leading his troops some days ago against the Northerners in Honan.

In a left wing action, a heavy force of Nationalists continued fighting in the series of battles along the Peiping-Hankow Railroad in Central Honan. Endeavoring to thrust the Northerners back into their base at Chengchow, they have met with strong resistance.

MAGAZINE BLOWN UP
Edging in on the Nationalists' right flank of their main body, the Northerners were rushing reinforcements into Northern Shantung Province. Their object was to smash their way southwest across the Yellow River and attack Tsinan. The Chinese inhabitants of that city fled by crowded railroad trains to Tsinan on the coast, their departure hurried by the explosion of the Nationalist powder house at Tsinan. Guards about the powder house were killed in the explosion, supposedly caused by rebel agents. To meet the rebel menace in this area, the Nationalists were drawn up along the Yellow River to prevent the Northerners' crossing.

THREE CITIES ATTACKED
Employing the traditional Chinese strategy, the rebels began an attack in the rear to draw off the Nationalists' frontal attack on Honan. Moving northward from Kwangsi Province, rebels united with a strong bandit force, with the declared object of attacking the tri-cities, Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, on the Yangtze River, in Central China. Already they had approached Changsha, chief city of Honan, threatening its capture. Foreigners of the city appealed to their governments to send gunboats for their protection.

And to meet the new menace, the Northerners withdrew troops that had been advancing toward Chengchow, thus weakening their front in Central Honan.

Election Machinery Operating

OTTAWA, June 3.—The election machinery is now operating at high pitch, in a large number of ridings the work of enumerating the voters has begun. A large army of "census-takers" has been enlisted to count the electors who will be entitled to cast their ballots on July 28. Between eight and ten thousand will be employed for the few days during which this task is being performed.

Instructions have been forwarded to returning officers regarding the duties they will have to perform and those which are to be delegated to the numerous subordinate officials in connection with voters' lists, nomination proceedings, the casting of the ballot, and the measure of co-operation they will be required to extend to the press relative to the collection and publication of progressive returns. There are 241 returning officers throughout Canada in the 245 constituencies. Four ridings return two members: Halifax, N.S.; Saint John-Albert, N.B.; Queen's, P.E.I., and Ottawa.

DIRIGIBLE HEADS TOWARDS AZORES

The position given is about 1,835 miles east of New York, and 500 miles west of Isle of Fayal, Azores.

CAREER ENDS SUDDENLY FOR MR. JOHNSTON

Canadian National Engineer, Who Resided Here, Passes on Return to His Duties

SPENT LIFETIME IN PROFESSION
The announcement of the death of Mr. H. L. Johnston, in New Westminster, came as a severe shock to his wide circle of friends in this city. Mr. Johnston had spent practically the whole of his life as an engineer, the greater part of it being in the work of locating and construction engineer in the employ of the great railway companies of the continent.

The death of Mr. Johnston was very sudden. He was alone in his apartment on Third Avenue, New Westminster, when he passed away. Mrs. Johnston and their daughter, Miss Johnston, being at their summer home at Sassexton.

Mr. Johnston had spent about two days here in company with his brother, Mr. E. S. Johnston, of Ottawa, who, with his family, is at present on a visit. It had been nineteen years since the brothers had met, and Mr. H. L. Johnston had only returned to New Westminster last Sunday night.

RAZOR-ARMED MADMEN RANGE COUNTRYSIDE

Ten Criminal Insane Inmates Escape From Mental Hospital and Elude Vigilant Search

RECORDS ASSURE FUGITIVES' MENACE

IONIA, Mich., June 3.—Thirteen dangerous inmates of the State Hospital for Criminal Insane made a daring escape from the institution today. Ten of them, armed with knives and razors, were still at liberty tonight. State police, county officers, hospital attendants and volunteers patrolled highways, examined thickets and woods, searched buildings and spread warnings to the countryside. Two of the thirteen were recaptured soon after the break. They were found on a trunk line highway, to which they evidently had gone in the hope of picking up rides. The third capture was near Sheridan, in an adjoining county, tonight. Of those still at large, four were sent to the hospital because they had committed murder; one charged into a courtroom with two pistols and threatened the judge; another ran into a Detroit bank, snatched $1,000, and the others were adjudged insane after robberies.

FOODS AND HOT DAY FATIGUE

Most persons are easily fatigued on hot days. So common is this experience that we think it natural. But it is not. A properly fed person will be just as alert mentally and physically on hot as on cool days. It is acid residues in the blood from eating acid-forming foods that cause hot weather tiredness. Foods that alkalize and vitalize the blood and body cells keep one "in the pink" on the hottest days. Roman Meal is the only alkaline cereal or grain food. It should be the grain food of choice for cereal, bread and cakes, especially during hot days. It can be eaten uncooked or icy-cold; recipes for both on package. Hot or cold, cooked or uncooked, it alkalizes the blood and pep one up on hot days. Milk, vegetables and fruits also alkalize and should be freely used with Roman Meal in Summer to build up resistance against winter strains and diseases. Five New Senators From Province of Quebec Appointed

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux has had a long and distinguished record. He was elected to represent the constituency of Gaspé, Quebec, in 1886 and has sat in the House of Commons for that, or another Quebec seat ever since. He has been Postmaster-General, Minister of Marine and Fisheries and Solicitor-General, and finally Speaker of the House of Commons. The latter position, which he relinquished to enter the Senate, he has held since the session of 1922.

Mr. E. W. Tobin, who represented the constituency of Richmond-Wolfe, has been a member of the House of Commons for thirty years. He is a merchant, lumber and pulpwood dealer. He has represented the constituency of Val-de-Fleur since 1923, save for a few months in 1929 when he resigned in February and was re-elected at a by-election in July. He lives at Chateaufort, Lac. Today's appointments clear up all the Senate vacancies in the Province of Quebec. There are still two vacancies to be filled, one in British Columbia and the other in Prince Edward Island.

Zone representatives who are also on the executive, were elected as follows, on zone nominations, by the respective zone delegations: Vancouver City, T. M. Hartnett; Greater Vancouver, F. J. Townsend; Cowichan and Islands, G. Boyer; Fraser Valley, P. A. Payne; Kamloops, J. R. Pyper; with E. S. Keeling as deputy; Revelstoke, Dr. A. L. Jones; Nanaimo and North Vancouver Island, T. A. Barnard; New Westminster, D. B. Brankin; Victoria and district, W. G. Stone; North Okanagan, E. W. Barton; South Okanagan, C. E. Bentley; East Kootenay, J. A. Young; West Kootenay, H. E. Thain; Northern British Columbia, Dr. R. W. Alward; Prince Rupert, to be appointed; Tuberculosis Veterans' division, W. O. Rylett; Imperial Veterans' section, J. Brydson. New Westminster's invitation for the 1931 convention was unanimously accepted.

ZONING COMMITTEE

The report of the zoning committee, of which H. A. Bryant is chairman, transferring the Collingwood to Vancouver City zone and made provision for handling the unwieldy Kamloops-Salmon Arm zone by means of a zone representative and a deputy. A lengthy discussion of the report was featured by the demands of the Upper Country zone command members in attendance at more than the annual convention gathering of the command, and the assertion of officials that the zoning committee would cut into funds for defraying visiting of branches. The last actual participation of General Ross in the proceedings at the convention, though he also spoke at the banquet before going to the coast, was at the close of the afternoon session, when Colonel Foster expressed to him the convention's deep appreciation of his visit and his services to it, and asked him to take to Ottawa a message to the Dominion Council, congratulating it on its splendid work on our behalf.

It is further reported that Italian immigrant children have organized "Baillias (child Fascists) and Avanguardistas (youth Fascists)" in Italy, and have been holding meetings Thursday and Sunday afternoons in the Italian consulate in Nice, singing, among other songs, one whose chorus runs: "When we get to Nice we will set up a merry-go-round, and tell these French that here we are at home."

CORSICA AS WELL

It is further reported that at the end of April, the Italian senator, Bonardi, conducted a large excursion to visit the French island of Corsica, and at Bastia, in a speech, declared that the object of the trip was to make Italy known to the Italians there. The same senator, landing at L'Ormo on his return, telegraphed Premier Mussolini. It is reported, that the Corsicans had maintained the Italian tongue and memories, and addressed him significantly as guardian of Italy's destinies. All of these incidents are having anything but a happy effect on public opinion here.

The Veterans' Corner

The Sooke Branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., will hold a dinner dance at the Belvedere Hotel on Saturday, June 14, at 7:30 o'clock. Tickets are obtainable from members of the branch.

So easy to get quick relief and prevent an attack in the future. Avoid bromides and dopes. They relieve quickly but affect the heart and are very dangerous. Is Appointed to Canadian Senate

HON. GEORGE PARENT, K.C.

The late member for Quebec West, who has been appointed to the Senate, is a native of Quebec City, his father, Hon. S. M. Parent, having been a former Minister of the Province. Mr. George Parent was called to the bar, his firm being Messrs. Parent, Taschereau and Cannon. Mr. Parent represented Montserrat, Canada from 1911, when he was defeated, in the House of Commons. He has held the Quebec West seat since 1917, having been continuously re-elected since that time. He is a director of several companies in Quebec Province.

CANADA'S ADVANCE AHEAD OF WORLD'S

Physical Strides of Business Now On Firm Foundation—Rapid Extension

(Special to The Colonist, Copyright, 1930)

TORONTO, June 3.—In a period of intense economic activity in which world production reached a record level, the rate of increase in Canadian production exceeded that of the world by a wide margin in many of the most important branches of economic life. This is brought out in an analysis of world and Canadian business, for which S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, is responsible. Ten years ago the economic forces of the world finally were mobilized along the broadest front of peaceful pursuit ever known.

The ensuing advance, dating from 1920, was not uniform in the world over; the United States, Canada, France and Argentina swept ahead of other countries, but progress was made almost everywhere on the globe.

IN SELECT GROUP

Canada's advance was so rapid as to place her among that small group of nations which enjoys a highly diversified economic life, and which has a broad field of opportunity for the application of agricultural and industrial science.

Canada established herself firmly as the leading factor in the international wheat trade, and made the greatest relative advance in mechanical farming. Her deposits of asbestos and nickel continued the work of the world's supply, and in regard to the latter, new uses were developed which made it increasingly important. She mined new ore bodies which placed her in third position in world production of gold and silver, fourth in copper and lead, and sixth in zinc.

Plans were laid for the extension of her metallurgical industry, which would place it among the leaders in its class.

While Canadian production of coal, petroleum and steel was but a small part of the world output, it increased at a greater rate than that of the world as a whole.

In other industries Canada made exceptional progress; she rose to second position in automobile manufacture, to third in paper and aluminum and to fifth in rubber. Without nearly approaching the limit of development of her water power resources, she had in 1929 the second largest hydro-electric plant, capable of producing about 15 per cent of the world's total of this form of energy.

In this study of world-wide extent, only information from the most reliable sources was employed. Information from some minor countries was discarded because of the lack of adequate statistical matter.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT

The Duke of Connaught, senior colonel of the brigade of guards, who was to have been the King's Deputy, decided at the last moment not to undergo the strain of the parade and sat with the Queen and Princess Mary and Prince George at the window of the royal box.

Throughout the review the prince, his face set and serious beneath his lowering brows, the broad blue ribbon of the Garter across his tunic, sat like a stone military statue on a magnificent chestnut charger, erect and motionless, save when he raised his white gloved hand in salute.

Although the Duke of Connaught was feeling quite fit, his physician deemed it inadvisable that he risk long hours in the cold east wind which swept the parade ground. He is eighty years of age.

Bernard Baruch, the financier, said at a wedding breakfast in New York: "The old days when a woman had to ask her husband for every cent—so much for meat, so much for milk, so much to pay the gas bill—those old days, thank goodness, are gone forever. I suppose that today 999 husbands out of every thousand make their wives suitable allowance."

"I once knew a man who didn't believe in allowances for wives. I met him one morning just as he was leaving the house for business. Suddenly the door opened and his wife called: "George! George!" "Well, what's wanted?" he said, pretty sharply, as he halted and looked back.

"Leave me money for the roast, dear. Don't you remember the roast you ordered?" "George took out his wallet. "Money, money, money," he growled. "What a spender you are! When I'm dead I guess you'll have to beg."

"Well, I'll be better off at that," said she, "than some poor women who never had any practice."

INSURANCE OF HEALTH SET AS OBJECTIVE

Mr. J. B. Fairbairn, Ontario's Deputy Minister of Agriculture, said notwithstanding its difficulties, there were evidences which warranted optimism in respect to agriculture, and in particular with respect to opportunities for export.

ONTARIO FARM PRODUCTS

Dealing with conditions in this province specifically, the best market for Ontario farm products, he contended, was Ontario itself. For economic and common sense reasons, the Department of Agriculture was going to appeal to the press, the Canadian manufacturers and all the service clubs to join with the department in a campaign for the greater consumption of Ontario farm products in the province itself. "Buy made in Canada goods" was a slogan of the manufacturers, and "eat more Ontario farm products" was suggested by the department. Co-operation between agriculture and manufacture could help in the solution of employment problems.

Colonel Robert McEwen, president of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Ltd., after brief reference to the improved position of wool production, due to proper grading and packing, held that there was no reason why all the raw material required by Canadian woolen mills could not eventually be produced and bought in this country. At present markets much of the native product had to be sought abroad, and the mills brought in much of their material from other countries. The education of Canadian people to demand fabrics made of Canadian wool, was largely of a suggested programme to the desired end.

SHOWER HELD FOR MISS LIVESEY

Many Useful Gifts Are Presented to June Bride-Elect at Sidney

SIDNEY, June 3.—Complimentary to Miss Amy Livesey, a popular June bride-elect, Mrs. Philip E. Brethour entertained at a delightful miscellaneous shower on Friday evening last, at her home on Oakland Avenue, Sidney.

The time passed pleasantly at games and music, Mrs. J. Mitchell and Mrs. J. Rankin winning the competition prizes. A pleasing interlude occurred when a large clothes basket completely covered with flowers was brought into the room and presented to Miss Livesey. Removing the three bouquets which were designated for herself, for Mrs. E. Livesey and Mrs. Bewick, she found the basket to contain a number of lovely and useful gifts, for which she thanked her friends individually.

The guests then repaired to the dining-room where the dainty refreshments were served from a prettily appointed tea table, centred with a beautiful bride's cake, with dainty bride party. The cake, which had been decorated by Miss Lillian Nunn, caused many comments of admiration. Another lovely cake had been made and decorated by Mrs. G. A. Cochran for Mrs. Philip Brethour, whose birthday was just passed. The Misses Helen, Marion and Gertrude Cochran, Dulcie Brethour, Irene Thornley and Lillian Nunn assisted with the serving. During the supper hour the members of the St. Andrew's and Holy Trinity evening branch of the W.A. presented Mrs. Brethour with lovely bouquet of roses, expressing their best wishes for her birthday. A pleasing ceremony occurred when they next presented Miss Livesey, who has been a faithful member of the auxiliary for many years with a beautiful silver cake plate, suitably engraved and a pretty bouquet of Spring flowers. Mrs. Brethour, in words, thanked her fellow members for their thoughtfulness.

The remainder of the evening passed all too quickly, and upon her departure the guest of honor was again surprised by the gift of a large box of written Never-Fail recipes and a Good Advice bouquet from which fluttered dozens of white ribbons each bearing a gem of good advice. Many expressions of good wishes for her happiness were extended and the party dispersed.

The invited guests included Miss Amy Livesey, Mrs. E. Livesey, Mrs. W. Bewick, Mrs. H. G. Horth, Mrs. J. Boher, Sr., Mrs. A. Readings, Mrs. H. Readings, Mrs. C. C. Cochran, Mrs. G. A. WILTON WALKER

NANAIMO, June 3.—A pretty wedding of much interest locally was solemnized yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in St. Paul's Anglican Church, when Canon H. V. Hitchcock united in marriage Grace, second daughter of Mrs. Walker, 429 Milton Street, a popular member of the B.C. Telephone staff in this city, to Mr. Douglas Wilton, only son of the late Mr. George Wilton and Mrs. Wilton, of Newcastle Town.

The altar was artistically decorated with Spring flowers and potted plants by friends of the bride. Mr. Sandland presided at the organ during the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Fred Jepson, her only attendant being Miss Gibb, of the Nanaimo teaching staff, while the groom was supported by Mr. James Partington. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton left for Up-Island points for a motor trip.

A cozier and his bride were standing at the altar waiting to be united.

"Will you have this woman?" asked the parson.

"I will," said the cozier.

"You must say 'I will,'" corrected the parson, and repeated the question.

"I will," said the cozier again.

The irate parson threatened to stop the service if the response was not given in the proper manner. But this was too much for the bride. "Look here," she burst out, "you must stop your badgering. You'll have Bill saying 'No' in a moment, if you keep on at it."

Overseas League Has Tea at Yacht Club

The Victoria branch of the Overseas League held a very enjoyable tea at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club on Monday afternoon, when a large number of members and their friends showed their appreciation of the club having placed its rooms at the disposal of the league. Permission was granted to fly the six-by-twelve-foot Overseas Jack at the yardarm and members were enabled to see this beautiful flag, representing all parts of the British Empire.

Over one hundred and twenty people sat down to tea, which was served in the sunny veranda and spacious clubroom. The tables were gay with flowers and the windows were draped with sprays of wild roses, which gave a very pretty and unusual effect. The tea arrangements were very capably looked after by Mrs. H. Justin Fisher, and the tea was served and provided by Mrs. Cooney, of the yacht club staff.

After tea the guests were taken out in Mr. Beaumont's beautiful motor yacht, Discovery Isle, Mr. Sidney Pickle's speed boat, Mustard III, Miss Helen Lindsay's Dumble runabout, Helmar II, and the dinghies sailed by Andrew Wright, Tom and Jim Golby. Mustard III provided some real thrills, as she is capable of making about forty miles per hour.

The following members entertained at tea: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. H. Justin Fisher, Mrs. A. E. Hodgins, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Greenway, Mrs. Towler, Miss Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hartley, Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont, Discovery Isle; Mrs. Stirling, Captain and Mrs. Barff, Mr. and Mrs. T. Golby, Mrs. D. J. Clark, Mrs. Pirrie, Miss Freeman, Rev. and Mrs. B. S. Clarke, Mr. Bellamy, Misses Lees, Mrs. Albert Griffiths, Mrs. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Sherwood, Mrs. Nixon and many others.

SCHOOL PRESENTS FRAMED ADDRESS

Rev. Mrs. J. J. Keogh Receives Tributes From St. Louis College Boys

During the course of the interesting entertainment given at St. Ann's auditorium Tuesday evening by pupils of St. Louis College, a beautifully illuminated and framed address was presented to Rev. Brother J. J. Keogh, conductor of the college choir, which recently at the Victoria Musical Festival won the W. H. Wilkerson Shield for the second consecutive year. The gift was presented by Jack Hickey, and the address read by Jack McDonald, paid grateful tribute to Brother Keogh.

The features of the entertaining programme were the winning festival numbers sung by the school choir and the two festival pieces played by Brian Burdon-Murphy, winner of the intermediate grade medal for piano. The comic opera, "Breaking Up," by Edmonds and Pacer, was another outstanding feature which the audience much enjoyed. The acting and singing in this was excellent throughout, those taking part being Arthur Bell, Jack Harzee, Jack Hickey, Paul Trude, Valma Gannon, Jack McDonald and Bobby Doherty, with a chorus of schoolboys.

The two festival songs sung by the choir were Bach's "Come, Let Us All This Day" and Schubert's "Know a Bank." Brian Burdon-Murphy's two piano solos were Schumann's "Waran" and "Orillon." Other numbers on the programme were selections by the school orchestra; a song by Jack Hickey, "Who Is Sylvia?," a hornpipe danced by one of the classes; and Bernard Costello's recitation entitled "A Boy's Speech." Brian Burdon-Murphy was the accompanist.

WHY BOYS LEAVE HOME

EVERY parent knows what self sacrifice is necessary to raise and educate a son. When boys leave home . . . go to a foreign country to seek opportunity . . . it is a definite loss, not only to the family, but to the Province of British Columbia.

They go to seek opportunity. You can help to increase the opportunities right here at home in British Columbia by insisting on B.C. made goods every time you make a purchase.

Let's stop exporting our payroll and keep the boys at home.

New Materials in Fashionable Hats

SIMPLICITY often supports a load of chic when the ingredients that go into it are of the proper choos- ing. The hat situation, however, is more complex. The fabrics that go into the making are legion, and the Vogue sketch on the left above were designed by Rebus. The lower one is of soft, string-like paper over a bandeau of burnt orange grosgrain ribbon. The little bow that lies against one cheek is a typical of the new softer hats that all Paris is wearing. The second model is a youthful interpretation of a bicorne, is of wine red felt banded with navy blue grosgrain—an important factor in the new hats. This frock freshness has been given by lingerie details, a white pique collar and a one-sided bow as a tie. On the right is a black and white fancy straw toque trimmed with a white flower at the side—Sketch by Vogue.

Bride and Groom Will Live In Vancouver

NANAIMO, June 3.—Miss Mabel Cope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cope, Five Acres, and Mr. George Black, of Vancouver, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Black, Five Acres, Nanaimo, were married at St. Paul's Church at 7 o'clock last evening by Rev. Canon Hillecock. Given away by her father, the bride approached the altar wearing a gown of white crepe-back satin with flared ankle-length skirt, yoke and sleeve frills of Chantilly lace, and corsage ornament of lily of the valley. She wore the traditional wedding veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweet peas.

She was attended by two bridesmaids, Misses Agnes Alexander and Phyllis Hirst. The former wore an ensemble of peach chiffon tulle, and the latter a dress of lemon silk lace with a cocktail jacket of the same material. Both wore headbands of gold leaves and carried shower bouquets.

Mr. Robert Milligan was best man. During the signing of the register Miss Maude Johnson gave a lovely rendition of "O Promise Me." Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Five Acres Community Hall, where the bride cut a four-tier cake and received congratulations from 150 guests.

Mrs. Cope, mother of the bride, received the guests in a dress of crushed strawberry satin with cocktail jacket of lace to match, and a mohair hat in blending shades.

The happy couple left later for Seattle, and will take up their residence on Dundas Street, Vancouver. They were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. The bride traveled in a bique Chantilly lace ensemble and a coat of the same shade with a fur collar, a mohair hat in blending shades, and a tan leather purse with turquoise and amber trimmings, the gift of the groom. The groom's gifts to the bridesmaids were leather purses with amber trimmings.

Colorful Garden Party Marks King's Birthday

Following traditional observance in honor of the King's Birthday a garden party was held at Government House yesterday afternoon by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Miss Mackenzie. The sudden burst of brilliant summer weather made of the event a gay kaleidoscope of color set in a lovely frame of verdant green trimmed with June flowers of every hue. Fully fifteen hundred people attended the affair, and the most beautiful designs and their gayest charm to the wheeling pageant.

The occasion held very special interest in introducing Miss Margaret Mackenzie as her sister's successor in the role of chateleine at Government House. Her grace, vivacity and charm captivated everyone, and by her spontaneous friendliness of manner she has already won assured place in the affections of Victorians. Standing cynosure of all eyes as the long queue of guests advanced across the lawn to be presented, her smart toilet of flowered chiffon in shades of cream, black and cherry, with natural waistline and long circular skirt, being much admired. Her broad-brimmed hat of Balmain had an under-brim trimming of cherry velvet, which was a striking note of color, and she wore a long string of cornellians. After the formalities of the hundreds of presentations came to an end His Honor and Miss Mackenzie, joined by a few intimate friends, had tea in the picturesque summerhouse before mingling with the crowds.

HOUSE WEDDING IS CELEBRATED

Miss Marjorie Pottinger Becomes Bride of Mr. R. Crombie at Pretty Summer Wedding

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Pottinger, 413 Vancouver Street, when their youngest daughter, Marjorie Davina Reid, became the bride of Mr. Robert Blahop Bulloch Crombie, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Crombie, 1535 Oak Street. The house had been beautifully decorated for the event with masses of blue and yellow blooms and greenery, and during the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Bruce Gray, of the First United Church, the bride and groom stood in the drawing-room before a lattice of greenery, interspersed with daisies and yellow lilies, and flanked with palms. Lilies, delphiniums and iris were arranged with charming effect throughout the other rooms.

As the bride entered the room on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage, Miss Martha Crombie played the wedding march from "Lohengrin." She looked radiant in her sleek, black and white and jade-colored gown, with tight bodice and long uneven skirt. With this she wore a hat of jade green silk lace with drooping back, trimmed with white daisies, and she carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Miss Ella Pottinger attended her sister as bridesmaid, and was most attractive in a gown of golden yellow georgette, with a wide, tiered skirt with uneven hemline, and a model hat of papyrus of the same shade, edged with mohair and trimmed with white daisies and blue green. Nile green shoes and a sheaf of yellow iris and blue delphiniums completed her costume. Mr. Archibald Wood supported the groom.

Only near relatives attended the ceremony, but about 100 guests came to the reception which followed. Mrs. Pottinger, in a smart gown of orchid chiffon with long lines and a hat of mohair to tone, trimmed with crushed French flowers, was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Crombie, who wore a handsome robe of jade green lace with a two-tier skirt finished with a diamond buckle, and a hat of maize mohair embroidered in tones of green.

A three-tier wedding cake centred the supper table, which was draped in folds of yellow tulle and lighted with tall yellow candles in silver holders.

Many beautiful gifts were received, and included a handsome silver salver from the firm of George A. Touche & Co., where the bride had been employed, and an electric music clock from members of the staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Crombie left on a honeymoon cruise in Northern waters on the yacht M. B. Narasapur, owned by the bride's brother, Dr. E. L. Pottinger, and she wore a sports costume of black and white silk crepe and a white sports coat, and a black and white tricolored turban with a tulle veil and a black bow. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Crombie will make their home at Prospect Lake for the summer months.

Ask No Questions!

SYNOPSIS
Anissa West, young, impetuous and good looking, is a resident of a desolate farmhouse in a remote district of Connecticut. She is a girl of unusual beauty and has a reputation for being a bit of a trouble maker. One night she is awakened by a noise in the cellar. She goes down and finds a man in a dark suit and a woman in a white dress. The man is a stranger and the woman is a friend of her mother's. They are both looking for a place to stay. Anissa is very curious and asks them many questions. They tell her that they are both looking for a place to stay and that they are both looking for a place to stay.

CHAPTER III
If there had not been still climbing her attention a hundred and one details connected with the move up from New York, the discovery of the open grave would have made the new mistress of Bride's House uneasy. As it was, she saw right away that the old Runnels' farm for the eighth time since her arrival there with no other emotion save that of relief. Unhappily this feeling of tranquility was the last she was to enjoy for some time.

"Otto to see you." Abby stood in the doorway of the living room.

"What's his trouble?"
"He's leaving."
"Leaving?" Miss West sat up. "Why?"

"It's the ghost, if you ask me—he's had a warning." The Scotchwoman thrust her hand into the bosom of her dress and drew out a crumpled piece of brown wrapping paper. The poor little fun this planned to his pillow this morning.

Miss West took the paper and smoothed it out on her knee. A warning, true enough. The Scotchwoman was the one on the board across the open grave.

"The lad's in the kitchen. Shall I fetch him?" asked Abby.
A gesture was answer enough. A moment later the effect of their discussion appeared, cap in hand.

"What's this I hear," Miss West asked, "about your leaving me?"
Otto fumbled his cap and stared at his large thick feet. "Ya," he admitted huskily. "I go now. To-night."

"You can go when your week is up. Not before. I can't be left with all those ponies to take care of. Besides, there's Dracula."

Otto raised his head sharply. "Someone is riding Dracula," he announced with a perceptible lessening of his Teutonic phlegm. "Riding him nights."

"Riding Dracula?" Miss West looked startled. "Otto, you're imagining things. No one could ride the Killer; no one but—"

"A ghost," interrupted the boy, and straightway fell to babbling of a struggle which had taken place in the south pasture the night before—the pasture, as the kept pointing out, where the dead ponies were put. Much had been torn by flying hoofs. And as further proof, the animal's flanks still showed the marks of spur and whip.

The new mistress of Bride's House rose and set her back to the open fire, spreading her skirts to get the full warmth of the dying blaze. For June, the night was chilly. After a moment, "I think I know who is doing all this," she lifted her chin defiantly. "It's—it's a certain person's method of getting his own way. A mighty poor method and unorthodox. Conviction, as it grew and strengthened, Otto, you needn't be afraid that a ghost's riding Dracula. It's some body we both know."

For a moment the German boy stared uncomprehending. Then his eyes lighted up. "Oh, ya," he said joyously. "You mean—"

"Mr. Terhune," his mistress finished for him.

"My former fiancé has his own reasons for not wanting to have me stay on here. Nothing would please him better than to have us close up Bride's House tomorrow and take ourselves and the horses back to town. In fact, he offered to wage me a thousand dollars I couldn't stick the month out."

Otto was not unfamiliar with thousand-dollar wagers. The sporting fraternity to which Miss West belonged had plenty of money. They were always betting on something or other.

"As you may well guess," the girl went on, "I've no wish to lose out. And with your help, Otto, I won't have to. It isn't going to hurt the stallion to have a little exercise. And if we don't pay any attention to what's going on, Mr. Terhune will soon get tired of his one-sided game. Go back to your quarters. I don't believe you will be bothered again tonight."

But despite her reassuring words to the stable boy, Miss West found it impossible to settle down to the pleasant lethargy of her former mood. Nor did a book offer any inducement. From the Redding hills came the roll of approaching thunder, while out in the kitchen, Abby, drying dishes, sang through her nose an ancient ballad.

"We're due for a storm," the girl said, half aloud. "Probably the blossom storm. That always comes in June. Or is it May? May, I guess. No, June."

At that moment a pair of feet commenced to descend the short flight of steps that led from the floor above.

The new mistress of Bride's House sat up with a jerk.

"Abby," she called. It did not need the distant rattle of teacups to tell her that she would have no answer. The Scotchwoman had not left the kitchen.

As she turned to look, a shadow, blacker than the blackness of the narrow hall, glided swiftly across the long mirror on the farther side of the wall at the foot of the stairs. Snatching her flashlight from the table, Miss West went to investigate.

The mirror caught the light as she approached and swallowed it. There was something queer about that mirror. She had noticed it from the first. The quicksilver on the back had cracked until, as a reflecting surface, it was practically useless.

Anissa swung her torch about. The hall, which ran straight through from front to back, was empty. There was no room out only a door leading down to the cellar. This door, as usual, was locked. A shallow closet built next to the walled-in cellar stairs was also empty. She retraced her steps.

The front door seemed to be closed. Otto, she recalled, had pulled it to after him, with a slam. It was necessary to do this because the wood had swelled a little. But she tried it again to make sure. The door yielded, groaning.

On the stoop outside there was nothing alarming to be seen, nor on the lawn within radius of her flashlight.

After a moment of indecision Anissa turned and set off in the direction of the white barn.

The eight ponies had all been bedded down for the night. Their stirrings and crunchings gave her a comfortable sense of reality—the consciousness of life going on in its accustomed way. Everything about the barn was shipshape. Otto had been efficient boy. She hoped he could be as efficient as a stallion.

Over in the red barn Dracula was not so contented. She could hear him roaring in his liminal, all the while she stood at once there was silence. She paused. The silence was broken by a high-pitched, hysterical whinny, a series of thuds. Fear, wild and unreasoning, clutched at her heart. She had heard the stallion try out a new box stall before, but this, somehow, was different. The thuds were repeated. She decided to go over and see what was going on.

With a glance at Abby's portly silhouette moving about now in one of the upper rooms of the house, the girl set out on a run for the red barn.

The grass was heavy with dew and she had forgotten that she had on satin slippers, but she flew on, conscious suddenly that the distance was greater than she had imagined. On reaching the stall, she mistook both clammy and stifling. Possibly it was what they called a mistle from the rock-bound pool at the head of the house.

No wonder that the Runnels farm had stood idle so long. No wonder tradespeople from Hales Crossing refused to come any nearer than the head of the Wood Road when they brought her meat and vegetables.

What was that?
Just ahead, in the tall grass outside the circle of light from her torch, something had moved—a tall gaunt shape swathed in soft and trailing draperies—a figure as formless as the night itself.

The girl stopped short. Her eyes strained to catch a second glimpse of that terrifying uncertain outline. But whatever it was, the thing had passed on. A bird, perhaps, its size exaggerated by the mist, or a great winged bat.

With a laugh that sounded tremulous even in her own ears, she pressed on in the direction of the red barn, but before she had taken half a dozen steps her feet felt as if they were being pulled back. As the big barn door rolled shut, Dracula rose up on his haunches and let out a mighty bellow of fear and rage.

Anissa West was quick to sense the mood of her dumb dependents. "Yes, darling, we're out of our minds, both of us." She had crossed the barn by this time and was fumbling at the iron bars of the box stall. "Out of our minds to come to this wretched place. We should have stayed in New York where everything is made of steel and concrete; and where there are electric lights on all the street corners."

The stallion's wants had been attended with the same conscientious thoroughness that had been given the ponies; but neither hay nor oats had been touched. Even the pail of drinking water, usually the first thing to be emptied, was just as Otto had left it—full to the brim.

Miss West took a lump of sugar from the pocket of her sweater and held it out, inviting confidences.

"What's the matter, boy? What makes you so restless?"
The Killer snuffed the sugar but made no attempt to take it. As though he wished to tell her something, the stallion whinnied and pawed the ground.

And now came the question she had been dreading. How get back to the house, how cross the fifty yards of unmowed lawn, without making an idiot of oneself by running from every shadow?

She got as far as the door only to go back, glad of an excuse, to pick up a halter that had been left lying on the floor.

The halter took her into the harness room, where she saw that the trap door which led into the cellar of the barn had been opened and left open.

Without a second's hesitation, she walked over and looked down into the hole. It was as black a pit as ever greeted the eye of a would-be adventurer; but she decided to see what lay at the bottom of it.

At first glance the cellar seemed to hold nothing but the ordinary trash discarded by five generations of pioneers. Worn-out farming implements. Bottles and jam jars. Old barrels. Packing cases, both large and small. The girl had turned to retrace her steps to the floor above when the light from her torch opened up the space behind an archway and she saw, sharply outlined against the whitewashed wall, a long black box. It rested on two of the smaller packing cases, which had been purposely laid over on their sides to serve as supports.

Familiar but always dread object—a coffin!

For the first time in her life Anissa West knew what it felt like to have the hair rise on her head. But after a moment, with small hesitating steps, she began to pick her way across the littered floor. Halfway, she paused. The lid of the mahogany box had been pushed back. Inside was not the heap of bones one might have expected to find, but a neatly folded wedding outfit: a white silk dress, yellowed by age, rotted and stained in places, but still intact; a wreath of what once had been wax orange blossoms; long white kid gloves and a pair of satin slippers designed for small, high-arched feet. Everything, in fact, that a fashionable bride of the late 'nineties might have chosen for her trousseau.

Miss West said, "Phew!" and sat down on the side of an overturned flour barrel.

She felt she needed a smoke before attempting the climb to the upper story. On investigation the capacious sweater pocket was found to contain a package of cigarettes and one solitary match.

Who could have brought that coffin down here, and why? Had it come from the freshly dug grave in the burying ground, or was it just being made ready to go into it? And would the ghastly joke—that it were—be complete without the body of a bride to wear the veil and orange blossoms the box contained? Miss West shivered as though an icy hand had been laid between her shoulder blades.

The match with which the cigarette had been lighted had closed a foot sticking out from behind one of the packing cases. It was a particularly inert foot, in a thick, heavy-soled shoe.

"Otto!" she cried, darting around the coffin and its improvised pedestal. "Otto, what are you doing—Oh!"

In a pool of blood which had spread until it seemed to cover all one corner of the floor lay the body of the German boy. His head had been blown to a pulp.

NINETEEN EXPECTED TO START IN DERBY TODAY

Bristowe, Vides and Rowe Win University School Track Titles

Capture Senior, Intermediate and Junior Honors Respectively at Annual Sports—Hon. J. Hinchliffe Presents Prizes

Reginald Bristowe, Pedro Vides and Paul Rowe will reign supreme in track and field circles at the University School, Mount Telemie, for the ensuing twelve months in the senior, intermediate and junior divisions, respectively, as a result of the annual athletic sports held yesterday afternoon on the University campus. The trio of athletes turned in fine performances in their classes and their victories were well received by the large attendance in evidence.

Following some stiff competition the 1930 champions—Hon. J. Hinchliffe presents prizes to the winners.

Senior champion—Reg. Bristowe, sixteen points; runner-up, J. Northrop, eight points.

Intermediate champion—Pedro Vides, ten points; runner-up, Billy Raine, seven points.

Junior champion—Paul Rowe, fifteen points; runner-up, Galt Martin and Cairnes Connolly, each with four points.

House championship—East House, forty-six points; West House, thirty-nine points.

Under ideal weather conditions the annual track meeting was run off in a spectacular manner, and the officials in charge deserve unlimited praise for the way they handled each event. The track was in excellent condition, although only one record was broken. Several other marks had mighty close calls, but managed to withstand the onslaught of a large crowd attending.

Some of the marks in the official record books of the school were made as far back as 1912, and although during the past eighteen years some brilliant talent has passed through its doors, they still remain intact. To the institution goes the credit of starting the famous Percy Williams out on the road to glory. Williams attended the school while a youngster, and now that he has attained world-wide fame on the cinder track the University School is proud of the fact that he was one of its boys.

BRISTOWE SHINES
In capturing the senior honors, Bristowe romped off with the 220-yards open, senior championship, 100-yards under sixteen and placed third in the 120-yards hurdles. Bristowe's form in the dashes was pretty to watch, and as he flashed past the tape on each occasion he was given a rousing reception by his schoolmates. For three-quarters of the distance in the quarter-mile event, Bristowe had pressed by Boyce and Brinkley, but as the runners reached the last turn the winner stepped out and won beautifully.

Pedro Vides and Paul Rowe showed up brilliantly to finish first in the intermediate and junior divisions.

Big League BASEBALL
The Hook Slide.
Leap for the bag first, then hit the ground, swing your right leg around, bring your body with it, and hook the corner of the bag with your left foot.
Batter can help base stealers by bluffing at ball and bringing bat back into catcher's face.

By Al Demaree
(Former Pitcher, New York Giants)
Base running is one of the most important parts of baseball. Many a game is lost by stupid work on the paths that otherwise would have been an easy victory.

Although speed is a big factor, good headwork and skill play a big part in the success of a good base runner. Getting the "jump" on the pitcher counts for much. More bases are stolen off the pitcher than the catcher. Study the opposing pitcher for little mannerisms that betray their intention to throw to the plate and then get your start.

Some base runners use a head first slide, which is simply a head-on dive, with the arms outstretched. It is useful in getting back to a base.

The standard slide, however, is the "hook" slide. Leap for the bag first, then hit the ground, swing your right leg around, bring your body with it, and hook the corner of the bag with your left foot.

When using this slide be sure you wear sliding pads to protect your hips, or otherwise you will receive some painful skin and bruises.

These are called "sliders" and "slidewalkers" by the professional players and are things to be avoided.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

The Chlamydomon Nigra—The Chlamydomon Nigra, or Chlamydomon Vorax, belongs to a genus of deep sea fish remarkable both for its great voracity and the extraordinary distensibility of its stomach and body, which permits it to swallow a fish of much larger bulk than itself. Pitcher Stillson Struck Out Twenty-Eight Men, and Lost—Stillson, a three-fingered pitcher for the Washington, Ohio, Cougars, was pitching against the rival town's team, the Leopards. He struck out every one of the twenty-eight men who faced him, yet lost the game. In one inning he pitched a high third strike, at which the batter swung and missed. The ball eluded the catcher, and the runner reached first. While Stillson was striking out the next man up, the runner stole second, and took a long lead toward third. Stillson tried to put him out on second, but the throw was wild and the runner scored.

U.S. DAVIS CUP SQUAD LEAVES

Americans Confident of Regaining Cup From Frenchmen This Year—Lott Concentrating Now

MEMBERS WANT TILDEN ON TEAM

NEW YORK, June 3.—All because of a public criticism made by Vincent Richards, young George Lott, of Chicago, thinks the French will find him harder to beat in the Davis Cup challenge round this year than last. Lott sails with six others tonight for the racquet wars abroad.

"It was funny," remarked Lott, "Richards wrote something about me in the paper while we were practicing in Philadelphia for the Davis Cup matches with Mexico. Richards criticized my game."

"Well, the funny part of it was that he was working out with us there and the rest of the team each other. I beat him. I think the scores were 6-1, 6-1."

Lott paused and suddenly became serious.

"Do you know what it was he wrote about me? He said I lacked concentration."

"Well, he's right. That has been the trouble with me in a lot of my matches—against the French in last year's challenge round, against Allison in the national championships, and again against Allison this spring, for instance."

"It just happened that I read that article of Vin's the day before I began to concentrate."

George thinks the task of concentrating will be a little easier this year than he found it when he stepped into the centre of the Roland Garros Stadium at Auteuil, a suburb of Paris, for his baptism of fire last July.

Lott is pulling strongly for Bill Tilden to play on this year's team.

By winning the doubles and beating Jean Borotra in both of his singles matches, Lott thinks the United States has a good chance to regain the cup this year.

Optimism is shared by his companions—Fitz-Eugene Dixon, Philadelphia, non-playing captain; John Van Ryn, East Orange, N.J.; and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, winners of the doubles last year. John Doe, Santa Monica, Cal. giant, and the reserve players, Berkeley Bell, Austin, and Gregory Mangin, Newark, N.J., all of whom are sailing tonight.

Keeps Bantam Title
QUEBEC, June 2.—Joe Villeneuve, Canadian bantamweight champion, retained his title here tonight when he drew with Bobby Leithman, Montreal. The champion weighed 116 1/2 and Leithman 117.

British Wightman Cup Tennis Team Announced

Joan Fry, Mrs. Godfree, Ermyntude Harvey, Mrs. Watson and Miss Mudford Chosen—Betty Nuthall Fails to Get Place

LONDON, June 3.—British Wightman Cup tennis team for the annual series against the United States at Wimbledon, June 13 and 14, was named today as follows: Miss Joan Fry, Mrs. L. A. Godfree, Ermyntude Harvey, Mrs. Phoebe Watson, Miss P. Mudford, and as non-playing captain, Mrs. M. Mavorogard.

The absence of Miss Betty Nuthall from the personnel of the British Wightman Cup teams comes as a shock to many followers of tennis. Miss Nuthall, known as one of the best of the younger British players, has played on the Wightman Cup team for the last three years and last season at Forest Hills she extended Helen Willis to the limit before she finally lost by scores of 8-6, 6-4.

On the whole, however, the British team is a strong and experienced combination, despite the wholesale changes from last year.

With the exception of Miss Mudford, a young player who made a splendid showing against Mrs. Willis in the second round of the French championships, all of the French players have seen previous Wightman Cup service.

The only 1929 player named is Mrs. Watson.

FEATHERED TRIBE TO BATTLE SONS
Eagles Will Be Out for Victory in Ball Fixture Tonight to Bolster Standing

Sons of Canada and Eagles will grace the ball lot at the Royal Athletic Park tonight when they hook up in a Senior Amateur Baseball League fixture at 6:15 o'clock. Jack Noble has been named by Manager Jack Curtis to do the heavy work for the Canadians, while it is expected that the veteran McDonald will go to the hillcock for the Eagles.

The Eagles are badly in need of a win to bolster their standing, while the Sons are anxious to check in with a victory to keep close to the leaders.

EGGS DEPOSITED IN PROSPECT LAKE
Forty Thousand Planted in Intake Stream—Spermaten Turn Out to Aid Work

Forty thousand eggs were planted in the intake stream at Prospect Lake Saturday afternoon under the supervision of J. H. Castley, of the Dominion Fish Hatchery at Cowichan Lake. The eggs were deposited in small boxes on a gravel bed, after a close examination of the stream.

The project was fostered by the Victoria Fish and Game Association, and Major Roger Monteth, the secretary, spent a great deal of time along with a number of others selecting the place for the eggs to be planted. Major Monteth, chief supervisor of the Dominion Fisheries, assisted in every way, and shanks are due to the Saanich municipality for supplying and delivering the gravel for the beds and to Eddie Hiddle, Creagh Allen and Herman Sehl, who spent several days cleaning out the debris and preparing the bed.

U.S. Revolver Shooting Won By Canadian
WINNIPEG, Man., June 3.—Chalking up the remarkable score of 472 points out of a possible 500, Constable W. C. Linton, member of "B" Division, Winnipeg Police Force, captured the twenty-yard indoor championship of the United States at a shoot held by the United States Revolver Association, which was announced here today.

Linton's score is only six points short of a world's record. E. G. Pickwick, representing C.N.R., Winnipeg, took fifth place with a score of 454. Marksmen from every state in the union and many from Cuba, South America and Europe participated in the shoot.

H.M.S. DAUNTLESS WILL PLAY REPS
Exhibition Soccer Match to Be Played at Royal Athletic Park Thursday Night

Victoria's "rep" soccer team will be given a good test Thursday night when they stack up against the visiting H.M.S. Dauntless eleven at the Royal Athletic Park in an exhibition match at 8:15 o'clock. While no word has been heard of the strength of the team of the British cruiser, previous appearances here of their colleagues is sufficient to warrant the British blue-jackets will field a strong squad.

Vancouver Man Draws Horse in Calcutta Sweep

VANCOUVER, June 3.—B. W. Hamber, well-known Vancouver polo player and sportsman, has been advised that he has drawn Lansdowne in the Calcutta Sweepstakes on the Epsom Derby, to be run at Epsom Downs, England, tomorrow. Mr. Hamber thus stands a chance to win in the neighborhood of $600,000. Lansdowne is a long shot, being quoted at 100 to 1. He will be ridden by G. Richards, providing the start, and is owned by Lord Glanely, who has another horse, Grand Esaul, among the probable starters.

RANGERS WIN AT WINNIPEG

Touring Scottish Footballers Defeat Fort Rouge Eleven Four Goals to Two

8,000 FANS SEE SMART EXHIBITION

WINNIPEG, Man., June 3.—Scott's classic of the local season was witnessed by 8,000 satisfied devotees here tonight when the Glasgow Rangers, champions of Scotland, though victorious, were held to a 4 to 2 score by the Fort Rouge of Winnipeg.

The brilliant exhibition of the touring Rangers proved a treat for the many fans from the Old Country and the younger generation following the game here, but the display of the home team was courageous and of fine style.

Taking the lead three minutes after the start of play, when Archibald scored from twenty yards out on a fast, low drive, the visiting Rangers finished the first half with a 2 to 1 lead. Resuming the game here, but the display of the home team was courageous and of fine style.

Johnny Lang finding the net, after a pretty pass from one of his teammates. McPhail put the Glasgow tourists ahead once more, and Fleming, with a speedy rush, snapped a fast one past Bogdan for the final goal of the evening.

SOFTBALL TITLE WON BY SAANICH
Suburbanites Defeat Pimley & Ritchie in Eleven-Inning Battle to Win "A" Section Honors

Scoring three runs in the first half of the eleventh inning, while their opponents failed to tally in the half, Saanich Thistles defeated Pimley & Ritchie, 4-3, last night at the Central Park to capture the first half championship of "A" section in the Victoria and District Softball League.

Close to 600 fans witnessed the game which was the best played on a local diamond for many a moon.

At the conclusion of the fourth inning the suburbanites were leading 3-1 and held this advantage until the last half of the ninth when the cyclamen pushed over two runs to even the score. Both teams scored two more in the tenth, and when Saanich hit in the pinches to win out in the eleventh.

Both pitchers, Putman for the Pimley & Ritchie, and Turner for Pimley's, twined fine ball and received great support from their teammates. Turner's backing in the final inning was a little ragged.

The score by innings follows: 4-3 Saanich 000 200 000 23-8 Pimley's 000 100 002 20-5 Batteries—Putman and Moody; Turner and Stewart.

In another "A" section game, Parfitt Brothers won from Vancouver Province, 11-1, Pimley's will meet the Hillcrest Friday evening, at Victoria West Park, to decide the runner-up in the senior division.

The Saanich Service Club defeated the Hillcrest on the former's home grounds last evening in the third "A" section fixture, 6-4. Both teams played fine ball, with the winners holding a slight edge throughout.

Miniature Golf Course Under Construction Here
Sport Layout to Cost About $5,000 Being Built on Belleville Street, Between Douglas and Government—To Open July 1

A miniature golf course will be placed at the disposal of Victorians on Belleville Street, between Douglas and Government, about July 1. Wednesday morning a number of workmen started the construction of a course for the Pacific Golf Course, Limited, which has the backing of Colonel H. T. Goodland and G. O. Merrick, of this city, and work will be rushed to completion.

The course will be in operation day and night when finished.

The new course will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000, and will have eighteen holes. It will cover about an acre, and will be along the most modern of miniature golf courses.

The greens will be artificial and will be made from cotton seed hulls. The management will furnish clubs and balls to the players and one round is expected to take about forty-five minutes. Putters only will be used.

Although only a miniature, the course will have all the hazards of a regular course. There will be bunkers and other traps, out-of-bounds and other penalties attached. Men's and women's rest-rooms will be built.

Miniature golf courses are not uncommon on the Coast. Across the line hundreds are in operation and in some places the courses are catering to as many as 750 a day. Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles have many miniature courses in operation.

DIOLITE 3 TO 1 FAVORITE ON EVE OF GREAT CLASSIC

Dopesters Figure Sir Hugo Hirst's Three-Year-Old Class of Field—Rustom Pasha Second Choice in Betting—Lord Derby's Colors to Be Absent From Race This Year

King and Queen to Watch Race; Million Spectators Expected

EPSOM DOWNS, ENGLAND, June 3.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald has been telling the British Empire editors gathered here all about the future of the British Empire. But what the Britons, high and low, would like to know tonight is what speedy colt will win the 1930 Derby, to be run tomorrow, at 3 p.m. (9 a.m. Eastern Standard Time), over twelve furlongs of the famous horse-shaped course at Epsom Downs. Britain's annual attack of Derby fever is at its height. The nineteen Derby entries are at Epsom tonight, and provided for as babies rarely are. Diolite, the form favorite at the short odds of three to one, slumbers in his luxurious box with the others not far away.

Diolite, which will sport the silks of Sir Hugo Hirst, has already won the 1930 Derby to hear most tipsters tell it, and should any other colt come in first, there'll be some talk talking to do by those experts, who pretend to know which horse can run the fastest.

HORSES CLOSELY GUARDED
The Bank of England and the Derby runners are about the only institutions in this country protected by guards with guns. Anybody prowling around the Derby runner's boxes tonight would stand no more chance than a gangster after a rival gangster's beer.

Newspapers are full of Derby talk. Theatres will broadcast the race as a part of their matinee programmes, while passengers on trains to Scotland and in air liners over the Channel will listen in on the classic.

King George plans to take Queen Mary for a day's outing with a million of his subjects. Nobody knows whether there will be a million, but that is the usual estimate.

With Diolite picked as a certain winner, the only uncertainty is whether it will rain. The weather man thinks there will be showers.

As the sun sets on the eve of the Derby, it sees little change in the final betting odds, save that Diolite, the favorite, confronted with eighteen other horses, has gone up to a shade, and Rustom Pasha, who has long been next on the wager list, has closed up a little the large gap between it and Diolite.

Tonight's odds give three to one against Diolite, as compared with this morning's five to two. There is no real drop in the favorite, but the eve of the great day usually sees a narrowing down. Sir Hugo Hirst's bay colt, sired by Diophan and out of Needle Rock, is reported in beautiful form.

Rustom Pasha, the Aga Khan's prime entry, is bringing odds of eleven to two against it, as against the longer odds of fifteen to one of Silver Wand, a fifteen to one.

NINETEEN STILL ON LIST
Nineteen horses are still in the ring. The other odds follow: The Scout II, 20 to 1; Blenheim, 17 to 1; Balfour, 22 to 1, with Noble Star the same; Illad, 25 to 1; Dick Swiveller, 28 to 1; Steer, 40 to 1; Sea Rover, Donoghue's mount, and Grand Salute, 60 to 1; Sponger, Bargany and Landowne, 86 to 1; Parthenon, J. Leach, jockey; A. K. Macomber, owner.

Tetragan, A. Wragg, jockey; T. Richards, owner.

Abdon, F. Winter, jockey; Mrs. Edgar Wallace, owner.

Touring English Rugby Team Given Initial Seaback
WELLINGTON, N.Z., June 3.—The touring British Rugby team suffered its first defeat since its arrival in New Zealand, when Wellington today captured a great struggle by a score of 12 to 8 points. The New Zealanders captured the game mainly because their forwards concentrated all their efforts to keep the left British backs from breaking clear with the ball.

LAWN TENNIS BY WILLARD CROCKER

XIII—THE LOB AND SMASH
The lob is one of the most effective weapons of both attack and defence. Do not abuse this stroke by using it too indiscriminately. Play it each time with a definite meaning. The stroke consists of "toasting" the ball in the air over the opponent's head. Every lob should be comfortably high and should land close to the back line. Short lobs are sure death to the point. First, when you are driven badly out of position and your opponent has an opportunity to put his shot away. Secondly, when your opponent is rushing the net and has come in too close to the net. Always hit your lob calmly, carefully and unhurried. Never consider anything but your eye on the ball and the place you are going to put it. The lob is especially effective in the doubles game. Never be embarrassed or hesitate to keep teasing lobs when you are definitely in danger and out of position, but equally so, never hit a lob when the drive is called for. The lob is the weapon to take the sting out of a severe net attack or slow-up play when it gets going too fast for you. Consider next the smash of the lob. Use the same swing as you do with your serve, but above all concentrate upon placement. Do not waste strength or opportunity by trying to smash through. Be willing to play back two lobs to your opponent by placement and wait for his third lob, which is likely to be short. When you have a short lob in front of you—put it away!

Miniature Golf Course Under Construction Here
Sport Layout to Cost About $5,000 Being Built on Belleville Street, Between Douglas and Government—To Open July 1

A miniature golf course will be placed at the disposal of Victorians on Belleville Street, between Douglas and Government, about July 1. Wednesday morning a number of workmen started the construction of a course for the Pacific Golf Course, Limited, which has the backing of Colonel H. T. Goodland and G. O. Merrick, of this city, and work will be rushed to completion.

The course will be in operation day and night when finished.

The new course will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000, and will have eighteen holes. It will cover about an acre, and will be along the most modern of miniature golf courses.

The greens will be artificial and will be made from cotton seed hulls. The management will furnish clubs and balls to the players and one round is expected to take about forty-five minutes. Putters only will be used.

Although only a miniature, the course will have all the hazards of a regular course. There will be bunkers and other traps, out-of-bounds and other penalties attached. Men's and women's rest-rooms will be built.

Miniature golf courses are not uncommon on the Coast. Across the line hundreds are in operation and in some places the courses are catering to as many as 750 a day. Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles have many miniature courses in operation.

Helene Madison Adds Another Mark to Lengthy List

BERKEEN, Wash., June 3.—Helene Madison, Seattle girl swimming sensation, added the 400-yard free style indoor American swimming record to her long list of aquatic feats today, when she negotiated the distance here in 5 min. 6.1-5 sec. The former record of 5 min. 14 sec. was made in 1927, by Martha Novellus, of New York.

FOUR CHAMPIONS
According to an old poetical legend, three fishers went sailing out into the West and they didn't do so well. The case of the four American champions who went sailing into the East is entirely different. The four are Bobby Jones, Helen Wills, Glenna Collett and Bill Tilden. They didn't win but their showing was extremely good.

THE CUBS IN THE EAST
If the crippled Cubs can hold their own fairly well through this next Eastern trip they will still be one of the contenders in September, despite the death of Carlson and the injury to Hornsby. They were counted out by many experts when this double blow struck at their championship hopes, but they still have enough great ball players left to keep any club hustling to beat them out.

CAPTURED SCOTTISH TROPHY SIX TIMES

Qualifying round for the British Open are now only two weeks away and there is a lot of discussion back and forth as to what Bobby Jones' mental attitude will be at Hoylake after his victory at St. Andrews. Will he feel as keen about keeping on, now that he has won every title he could go after? Knowing Jones, there is only one answer.

THE BRITISH OPEN

Once he is rested up and ready to go again, he will be keen enough to give all he has. He may feel satisfied with his lot today and for the next few days. He may feel now that the British Open doesn't matter so much. But he will feel quite differently about it when he arrives at Hoylake where he met his first British disaster, and finds such competitors as Horton Smith, Mac Smith, Leo Diegel and the best of the British.

MAYOR ANSCOMB TO PRESENT PRIZES

MAYOR HERBERT ANSCOMB
Who has consented to act as honorary judge for the Colonist's eighth bicycle race, to be staged Friday, June 13, at the corner of Grand Street and Kings Road at 7:30 p.m. Mayor Anscomb will present prizes at the finish of the race.

Through the date set for the Colonist eighth bicycle race, ten days away, entries are coming in fast. Preparations are being quickly completed by the committee, and it is hoped that all arrangements will be made shortly. The course is in excellent shape, and through the courtesy of the engineering department of the Saanhich Municipality the only unpaved portion on the whole course, that of Glanford Avenue, will not be ridden until after the race has been ridden. This concession is of inestimable value, since anything in the nature of wet tar or oil destroy all chance of speed.

NEW POLICY TO BE INAUGURATED

Extra Efforts to Be Made to Secure B.C. Coast Brigade Recruits, Says O.C.

News of the confirmation of the appointment of Major T. B. Monk as Officer Commanding the 5th (B.C.) Coast Brigade, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, has been received from the Department of National Defence at Ottawa. Col. Monk's many friends in Victoria will be glad of this opportunity to congratulate him on his new appointment.

In an interview, Col. Monk stated that a new policy was being adopted in connection with the work of the Brigade, to which he hopes that all past officers, non-commissioned officers and men will give their assistance by co-operation with the present officers and men, in the work of rounding up recruits, who will in the years to come be the future officers and N.C.O.s to fill the places of those who are retired or placed on the Brigade reserve in the next few years.

There is an immediate demand for at least twenty young men in their early twenties, suitable to be Junior officers; and at least twice as many for non-commissioned officer rank at the present time.

The Colonel sees no difficulty in obtaining these if the many advantages of the garrison and field training and military school instruction to be obtained are fully understood and appreciated by the many fine young men of this city. The corps has a noble history behind it and has always been composed of young men of the very best element on Vancouver Island, whose names are well known in every walk of life here and who have maintained their love of their old corps and repeatedly expressed their appreciation of the benefits of their early training whilst members of the 5th (B.C.) Coast Brigade, formerly known as the 5th Regiment Canadian Garrison Artillery, which has always maintained the highest rank in loyal service for Canada.

CAMP JUNE 14

The two Coast Defence Batteries and the Anti-Aircraft Battery go to camp for their annual training at Port Mcauley on June 14, and arrangements can be made at once to take a number of young men into camp with the object of giving them their first training in the field work of this artillery branch of the Canadian militia. Also a number can be taken this year to Sarcee Camp, Alberta, when the two mobile batteries go there for their annual field exercises in July.

All young men desirous of joining the Brigade should make application as soon as possible to Major J. B. Clearhugh, M.C., 56th Battery; Major Aubrey Kent, of the 12th Siege Battery; Capt. Carl Gonsalves, 55th Battery; Capt. R. N. Foot, of the Anti-Aircraft Battery, or to Lieut.-Col. T. B. Monk, V.D., O.C. 5th (B.C.) Coast Brigade, on any Tuesday evening at the Armories, or at the business office of any of the above-mentioned officers. Applications should be made as soon as possible.

The recruit on being taken on the strength of the brigade, will be issued with uniform and his training will commence at once. Those who have not had any previous military experience would go through the ranks for at least one camp training, this giving them a convenient time to find out if they like the work and also giving the officers an opportunity to discover if the recruits are suitable material for the making of competent N.C.O.s and officers. The recruit has a chance to learn the first fundamentals of military training, going to school in preparation for the examinations that are the groundwork for later studies and training in the several branches of the work of the brigade. It is a healthy, vigorous and adventurous career and one that has proved most beneficial to all who have had the privilege of being participants.

Special provision is made for all recruits to study horsemanship, signalling and gunnery, and there is a Royal School of Gunners held at Esquimalt twice a year, where officers and N.C.O.s of mobile batteries can attend (if they can spare the time), full expenses and pay of rank being given them. Each course extends over a period of six weeks.

PROVISIONAL SCHOOLS

For those who cannot go to Winnipeg, provisional evening schools are arranged for in Victoria, and members of the corps in the garrison batteries at Esquimalt.

For signallers, special training is carried on here, and in the case of those who are qualifying for instructors in signalling, they can be sent to Camp Borden in Ontario, on the Niagara Peninsula, for a course, with expenses found and pay of rank, for the duration of the course.

It will be seen that any young man who wishes to spend his spare time of an evening in military instruction has a very fine opportunity of obtaining military school training, with promotion in the future, at the hands of the B.C. Coast Brigade staff.

The training given by this brigade is particularly well adapted to young men who are attending the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ontario, and many gentlemen-cadets have already availed themselves of this opportunity.

BURGLARS OBTAIN $100 LOOT IN GAS STATION ROBBERY

Tergeson's service station, corner of Government Street and Gorge Road, was broken into for the second time this year when burglars entered the premises Monday night and obtained between $85 and $100 in cash. Attempts were made to work yesterday morning found the station in a state of chaos, while the keys to the gas pump and cash register were missing.

The matter was reported to the police yesterday morning and detectives are now handling the case. A previous robbery was reported at the same station about the first of the year.

The Story Behind the Play

By J. J. GELLER "TRILBY"

Virginia Harned and Wilton Lackaye in a Scene From "Trilby"

Both as fiction and melodrama, "Trilby" captured the emotions of millions when it made its bow during the middle '90s. It was truly a "Trilby" era when two continents responded to this story. There were Trilby girls, Trilby contests, the Trilby questionnaire, Trilby contests, not to say anything of the Svengali influence attributed to all evil-doing persons.

The original story had its inception in the brain of George du Maurier, a genial English artist of French extraction, and the tale would never have come to light if it hadn't been for the encouragement of the American novelist, Henry James. Du Maurier was drawing pictures for "Punch" and other publications, and in the course of reading the contributions for illustrations was possessed of the desire to invade the field of fiction.

While walking one day with Henry James on Hampstead Heath, Du Maurier casually mentioned the ease and facility with which plots suggested themselves to him. He went on to say that there lingered in his mind some fifty plots, any one of which would serve for a novel. James' curiosity was aroused, and he mildly suggested that the artist sketch one of his ideas. Du Maurier briefly outlined the story of an artist's model who was tempted, yet became a prima donna. The world was to know her later as Trilby. James listened intently. Du Maurier saw that it held his interest and offered it to the novelist, but James declined to accept it, and gave the opinion that the plot deserved to be expanded into a novel.

With such popularity it was not expected that it would catch the stage producers' fancy. They immediately recognized the hold that this charming story had upon the public, and before "Trilby" was completed in serial form one prominent producer, A. M. Palmer, in conjunction with the playwright, Paul M. Potter, successfully negotiated for the privilege of placing the novel upon the stage. "Trilby" offered peculiar difficulties to its play adaptor, inasmuch as the story was its entirety for the stage. Potter, faced with the task of dramatizing the famous story, judiciously extracted the melodramatic incidents. He stressed hypnotic element and the artist sketch one of his ideas. Du Maurier briefly outlined the story of an artist's model who was tempted, yet became a prima donna. The world was to know her later as Trilby. James listened intently. Du Maurier saw that it held his interest and offered it to the novelist, but James declined to accept it, and gave the opinion that the plot deserved to be expanded into a novel.

"Trilby" opened at the Boston Museum on March 4, 1895, with Virginia Harned in the role of Trilby, and Wilton Lackaye as Svengali, and the play became an instantaneous success. Several road companies were sent on tour at once with the same production. The original company appeared at the Garden Theatre, in New York City on April 15 of the same year. So great were the demands for seats that the theatre was unable to accommodate the requests for several months. This news, of course, reached London, and rumor had it that Beer-broom Tree literally dogged Palmer's footsteps for the English rights to "Trilby" which were finally sold to him. Tree produced it in London with himself in the role of Svengali and Gerald Du Maurier, the author's son, as a member of the cast. The play gave us some amusing pictures of life in the Latin Quarter, impressed the audiences with hypnotic manifestations and made tremendous profits for all concerned.

FORMER ONTARIO PREMIER RUNS IN NORTH SIMCOE

TORONTO, June 3.—Sinking their differences in order to present a united front to the Conservative forces, Liberals and Progressives of North Simcoe met in joint convention yesterday and nominated E. C. Drury, former Premier of Ontario, as their candidate to contest the riding in the Dominion election.

In defining his stand on politics of the day, Mr. Drury said: "Although I am an ardent exponent of free trade I feel that the counter-vailing duties are one of the best institutions that Canada has yet had."

"You all know that I have always been a free trader. I have always advocated a free trade policy and I still stand by the free trade doctrine; but I am not blind to the fact that there is a necessity for some tariffs in Canada for protection against the tariff barriers of other countries. I believe that the countervailing duties will have more effect on the United States than any other move on the part of a Canadian Government in the past three decades."

He is well equipped for his singing role in this First National-Vitaphone talking picture. Hall had a successful career in musical comedy before entering motion pictures.

COLUMBIA Battles under water with sharks, sensational fights in a jungle wilderness, and other tropic thrills, blend with an island love romance in Ramon Novarro's new screen drama, "The Pagan," now playing at the Columbia Theatre. This new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production was directed by W. S. Van Dyke.

DOMINION Maurice Chevalier, Theatre, has many claims to versatility. One of them is that he is an inventor! The new Chevalier invention helps to create a feeling of intimacy between his screen shadow and the film audiences. His new device was used most effectively in the filming of Chevalier's newest starring picture, "The Big Pond," which is now at the Dominion Theatre for the last times today.

CAPITOL Crauford Kent, who for fifteen years has been an important actor in the motion picture industry, has an important part in George Bancroft's newest starring picture, "Ladies Love Brutes," which will be seen and heard at the Capitol Theatre for the last times today. Alex Smith Insists Old Stars of Golf as Good as Modern Ones

Historic Match With Isaac Mackie Quarter-Century Ago Cited as Proof

By BUNKER

The passing of Alex Smith marks an epoch in golf in the United States. After him few of the old school of Scott professionals survive over here. These were the doughty warriors to whom golf was a god and a religion. They helped largely to make the game the great outdoor passion of the country.

As a man golfer, so was he respected among them. Their attitude was reminiscent of the famous old keeper of the refreshment stand at St. Andrews in Scotland.

This odd character was accustomed to run up a flag on days when some person of prominence played the course. The Grand Duke Michael of Russia, coming out one day for a round, saw the flag up and mistakenly assumed that the emblem was displayed in his honor.

"Thank you, Jamie," he said, "for running out the flag."

"No," retorted Jamie, "it's for a better man than you, Duke; it's his loyalty to golf as practiced in the land of his youth.

When one considers the scores with which Alex twice became champion, one is forced to the conclusion that his play was on a par with the very greatest of present-day stars. In 1906, at Onwenais, he won with a score of 285; at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, in 1910, he finished the 72 holes in 288, and then won the play-off with a 71.

Courses then were perhaps not so long as the championship layouts of today, but on the other hand the stars of that period did not employ as lively a ball as has since come into use.

From conversations with the veteran, this writer is convinced that he took fully as much pride in a special match he once played with Isaac Mackie at the Fox Hills as in his national championships.

He was convinced that this match proved golfers of the old day to be the equals of the best of today. "I defy any of the young bloods to beat the record Isaac and I made," he would say. "It can't be done."

It is now some twenty odd years since the battle was staged. Smith had won the U.S. Open of 1906. Mackie had not yet figured in so important a victory, but he had displayed great ability. It chanced that a number of members of the Fox Hills Club, where Mackie was professional, also belonged to the Wykagil Club in Westchester County. They got into an argument over the respective merits of the stars, with the result that a 36-hole match was arranged at Fox Hills.

A handsome purse was provided. Needless to say the backers of the two contestants "bet their heads off on the result."

At the end of the morning round, Smith, with a medal of 71 to Mackie's 72, was one up at match play. But in the afternoon the struggle became really bitter. It is safe to say that no match of modern times was more brilliantly played. Each player turned in a medal score of 66, and Smith only won on the final hole, one up!

At the finish, Alex claimed that he captured the long end of the purse by a bit of headwork typical of the old students of the game.

When they came up to their drives on the thirty-sixth hole, they were so even that they had to appeal to the referee, Mr. A. H. Pogson, to decide who should play first. He picked Smith.

"This was important," said Alex in describing the match. "You see I was one up and so only needed to halve the last hole to win. I figured that if I could shoot first I might be able to employ a bit of successful strategy."

My idea was to play my second short of the cup if possible. I figured that Isaac would certainly try to get inside me, and that very likely he would play past the cup. If he was nearer the pin than I it would be just what I wanted, for it would allow me to putt first.

The hole was 310 yards long. After the drives we were only about sixty yards from the pin. My second was successful, stopping about fifteen feet short of the cup. Just as I hoped, Mackie played twelve feet past the hole.

"Putting first, I overran by six inches and laid him a dead stymie. He had to take a four and I grabbed the match."

As a footnote, it should be added that the Fox Hills course then measured 4,250 yards. However, the lively ball was not in use.

At that, Alex and Isaac frequently drove for 250 and more yards. And in the historic afternoon round each had a 33 going out and a 33 coming in.

On the average, golf today undoubtedly is faster than it used to be. But this match of almost twenty-five years ago indicates that the great men of the time were just about as good as the great men of 1930.

Rice continued his heavy slugging with three hits in five tries. Babe Herman once more set the pace by hitting three out of four, including his thirteenth homer, and lifted his first place mark to .425.

Babe Ruth hit homer No. 17 and one other hit in five times and gained a point, while Paul Warner and Al Simmons were out of action.

Nanny Meadow Mouse Decides Matters

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Decide on something; you will find relief in making up your mind.

—Nanny Meadow Mouse.

Peter Rabbit having satisfied his curiosity about Killy the Sparrow Hawk, remembered how anxious Nanny Meadow Mouse had been. So Peter went back to look for him. He didn't find him. In fact, it wasn't until a week later when Peter again happened to be over in the Long Lane that he discovered Nanny Meadow Mouse. It was just at dusk. Peter was hopping along down the Long Lane when someone scurried across just in front of him. Peter didn't get a good look at this small person and he was just about to hop over in the bushes into which this small person had disappeared when another hurrying little form almost ran into him.

"Well, Nanny Meadow Mouse, what is your hurry?" demanded Peter, for it was, indeed, Nanny Meadow Mouse.

"Oh," squeaked Nanny, "what a fright you gave me! What a dreadful fright! I didn't see you at all."

"Huh!" said Peter. "If you don't use your eyes any better than that, I don't see how it is that you have escaped so long. Who was that you were chasing?"

"I wasn't chasing anyone," retorted Nanny somewhat crossly. "I was just following Nanny."

"So that was Nanny Meadow Mouse who ran across in front of me first?" said Peter.

"Yes, that was Nanny Meadow Mouse. What of it?" said another squeaky little voice. And Peter turned to see Nanny herself peering out from the bushes.

Peter's eyes twinkled. "What were you running away from Nanny for?" he demanded.

"I wasn't running away from Nanny," squeaked Nanny, and it was a very indignant squeak. "Nanny Meadow Mouse couldn't make me run away from him. I'm not afraid of Nanny and I never was. I was just leading the way."

"Oh, excuse me!" said Peter politely. "And where were you leading the way to?"

"It isn't any business of yours, Peter Rabbit," squeaked Nanny. "Come on, Nanny, we must be going."

"Why this hurry?" asked Peter.

SEATTLE GOLFERS WIN FROM LOCALS

Members of Greenkeepers' Association of the Northwest Beat Victoria Team at Colwood

A representative team from the Greenkeepers' Association of the Northwest, from the State of Washington, scored an 18-9 victory, over members of the Victoria Greenkeepers' Association in an international match staged at the Colwood Golf and Country Club over the week-end. A return match will probably be played in Seattle later in the year.

The visitors played some fine golf and their win was well deserved, especially as the majority of them were playing at Colwood for the first time. Sydney Cowen, skipper of the winners, played the best golf of the day, while Hans Moen and Al Junor also showed up well. Cowen, at one time, was professional at the Burnaby Club in Vancouver.

The scores, with the visitors first mentioned, follow:

A. Junor	3, W. Gove	6.
S. Cowen	3, J. Riddell	0.
H. Moen	3, A. C. Smith	0.
F. Tederpiel	1 1/2, P. Tostevin	1 1/2.
W. Wolf	3, C. Clark	0.
A. Boyd	0, G. E. Foster	3.
H. Hollingshead	3, W. Unwin	0.
B. Finlay	1 1/2, W. Thompson	1 1/2.
F. Kelley	0, R. Pugh	3.

Victoria's team consisted of: A. Junor, 3; W. Gove, 6; S. Cowen, 3; J. Riddell, 0; H. Moen, 3; A. C. Smith, 0; F. Tederpiel, 1 1/2; P. Tostevin, 1 1/2; W. Wolf, 3; C. Clark, 0; A. Boyd, 0; G. E. Foster, 3; H. Hollingshead, 3; W. Unwin, 0; B. Finlay, 1 1/2; W. Thompson, 1 1/2; F. Kelley, 0; R. Pugh, 3.

Much in Little

Perhaps you are inclined to think that a large room and a considerable investment are necessary for thoroughly modern beauty and comfort in the bathroom. Not so. New compact fixtures have made possible rooms in a hall-end or odd nook that in beauty and service are beyond criticism.

If you are planning a small house, with both bathroom space and money limited, here's a suggestion . . . a Corwith built-in tub that leaves no unsightly and hard-to-clean waste space behind or beneath . . . a Clermont twice-fired vitreous china wall lavatory . . . a twice-fired vitreous china Saneto syphon-jet closet.

In a room only seven feet three by four feet ten and one half inches, these three fixtures can be installed, for a thoroughly modern, unusually convenient bathroom, surprisingly reasonable in cost.

Walls of painted plaster or water proofed wall-paper, floor of linoleum, cheerful window hangings; only the imagination limits the colorful charm that can be given to such a room.

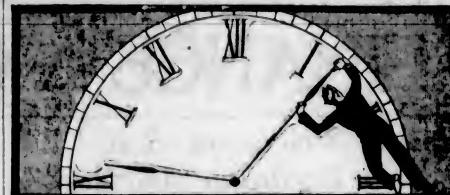

For decorating and arrangement suggestions, write for the Crane book, New Ideas for Bathrooms and Planning the Small Bathroom. For an idea of the economy and completeness of Crane offerings, visit Crane Exhibit Rooms or write for Homes of Comfort.

About installation, consult a responsible contractor.

Condition of Market for B.C. Produce

Issued by Markets Branch, Department of Agriculture

Heavy rains during Sunday night, followed by cold weather, will retard the ripening of strawberries on the island, although they will be considerably ahead of last year. Logberries are showing a very heavy bloom with indications of a good crop.

Latest reports from Markets Commissioner who is on the Mainland on his way to the Prairies: "Strawberries are coming in more freely from Mission, Haney and other points on the north side of the Fraser River. Many expect to ship their first car on June 3 or 4. This will be subject to weather conditions. Heavy rains during the past week have improved the crop and the fruit is setting heavier than at first expected. Prairie wholesale houses have agents out in the districts soliciting business, or rather, trying to induce growers to ship their berries on consignment."

VANCOUVER
The weather continues to be very unsettled and at the time of writing is dull and wet. Local strawberries are now in greater volume but as yet it is necessary to import from Washington to supply a part of the demand. Good local berries wholesale at $5 while $4.75 is the ruling price on the imported product. Hothouse tomatoes are down again, today's wholesale prices being $4.25 for No. 1, and $3.25 for No. 2 and deserts. This reduction was necessary in order that the market be kept clear of an accumulation of stock. Hothouse cucumbers are moving very slowly, the inclement weather holding off sales which would be normal for this time of the year. A few local potatoes continue to come on the market but the volume is light and the bulk of the supply is still from Southern points. The price remains at 6 cents per lb. wholesale. Pottery prices have fallen off substantially during the week, the heavy arrivals of light stock of all kinds, which tends to depress the price of the better grades. Feed prices have also dropped, as will be noted in the accompanying price list:

Hay, grain and feed, wholesale at mill: wheat, No. 1, $4.75; No. 2, $4.50; oats, $4.25; barley, $4.10; corn, $4.25; corn cracked, $4.75; bran, $3.25; shorts, $3.25; middlings, $4.25; scratch feed, $4.75; lay mash, $5.25; timothy, $2.25; clover, $2.25; alfalfa, $2.25. Eggs to producers, cases returned: fresh extra, 35c dozen; fresh firsts, 23c dozen. Poultry, live to shipper: light hens, 16c lb.; medium hens, 15c lb.; heavy hens, 21c lb.; stags, 18c lb.; broilers, light, 16c lb.; young ducks, 20c lb.; old ducks, 15c lb. Veal: country dressed tops to shipper, 18c lb. Hogs: Prime light at first expected. Prairie wholesale houses have agents out in the districts soliciting business, or rather, trying to induce growers to ship their berries on consignment."

The following fruit and produce was imported at Victoria and Vancouver during the period ending May 29: Washington strawberries, 107 crates; apples, 500 crates; new potatoes, 239,511 lbs.; old potatoes, 149,215 lbs.; California cherries, 500 boxes; cantaloupes, 753 dozen; celery, 390 crates; onions, 377 sacks.

CALGARY
Strawberries arriving by express. Moderate demand. Prices: B.C. 24-pint crate, $5.50; Kennewick, 24-pint crate, $5.50; Arkansas 24-pint crate, $13. Cherries, market firm. California Bing, 12-lb. lugs, $5 to $5.50. Cantaloupes: California supplies liberal, market drags. Standards, $5; flats, $3. Tomatoes, local hothouse, 4-basket crate, $6 to $6.50. B.C. hothouse 4-basket crate, $5.50. Texas field lugs, $6.50. Cucumbers, local hothouse, per dozen, $1.75 to $2.50; B.C. 2.50 dozen. Celery: California supplies, 10c to 12c lb. Car arrivals from 23rd to 29th: B.C. rhubarb; 1 vegetable. Imported: 1 apple; 1 cantaloupe; 1 tomato; 1 celery; 2 oranges; 8 vegetables; 3 bananas. N.B. 2 potatoes also 1 potatoes from P.E.I.

BERRIES IN CARTONS
From indications impressed by a visit to strawberry growing districts on Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland, coupled with remarks made by prominent growers, indications point to a very small pack of strawberries in barrels this year. A short crop is expected from Quebec, fair from Ontario and about half as much from B.C., with conditions in the Pacific Northwest similar to B.C. conditions. The supply of 1-lb. cartons, put up and frozen in the cartons, was very much under the demand, and growers will this year turn their attention more to putting their surplus in cartons than into barrels. The demand for barrel stuff from Eastern Canada should more than take care of the unsold portion of 2 plus 1 stock held over from last year, which is reported to have come through in perfect condition.

The following paragraph, taken from a letter received from the Canadian Agricultural representative in England, who received twelve cases of 1-lb. frozen strawberries, sent over by ship, for demonstration purposes, will show that they are interested in our 1-lb. carton pack over there:

"Regarding the twelve cases of berries forwarded, eight cases have been forwarded to prospective customers. Your berries were criticized from the fact that they had not been graded to size. Large, small and middle-sized berries must be mixed together, if the best market is to be obtained, or if competition is to be met. There is a better opportunity of selling small berries than there are of large and small berries mixed. In the comparison that were made British Columbia was a big advantage in the flavor, and I assume that you would not have difficulty in grading to size, or freezing in the cups."

The criticisms on grading will be remedied this year as most of the packers are having grading machines installed.

GAIN RECORDED IS EXCEPTIONAL

Colorado Fuel & Iron Stages Movement of Its Own—Good Profits Obtainable

(B.C. Bond Corporation, Ltd.)

NEW YORK, June 3.—(By Cable)—Although the market did not develop any definite trend yesterday, Colorado Fuel staged a movement of its own and for a time showed rather exceptional gains. It receded somewhat under profit-taking, but, on the whole, displayed all signs of being in strong hands and showing further prospects of appreciation in value. The past record of this company is not particularly impressive and the stock's performance marketwise have been erratic. It receded sharply during the last sell-off, but its recovery was also impressive.

We understand that the control of this company, which for a long time was in the hands of the Rockefeller interests, is about to pass into new hands, if actually it has not passed already. The price control is well above the current market levels and, therefore, the value of the stock is expected to be brought up nearer the purchase price.

As the most important producer in the mountain states, Colorado Fuel is more than a large organization than it would be for speculation purposes or for speculation in the stock market. It is from this viewpoint that the stock deserves attention of the market trader and through the market involved in, in our opinion, sizeable, the nearby prospects are for higher levels. The stock should bring good profits for long-invested holders and is recommended for such a purpose.

PHILIPS DODGE

The reduction of the dividend rate by Utah Copper from $16 to $8 per share and by the Nevada from $3 to $1.50 per share, from $10 to $3, turned attention of the trading community to the copper group and short covering was in evidence. It is always the case that when the bad news is out short covering their commitments. In our opinion, this is not all the bad news that the copper companies will be forced to publish. In the case of the smaller producers, the cut in the dividend is likely to be followed by another cut.

Among the large companies, Anaconda and Phelps Dodge are still officially carrying their old dividend rates. We believe that both of them will be forced to reduce payments when the bad news is out short covering their commitments. In our opinion, this is not all the bad news that the copper companies will be forced to publish. In the case of the smaller producers, the cut in the dividend is likely to be followed by another cut.

In the above hand there was no trouble in arriving at a game-going declaration either at Auction or Contract. Unfortunately, however, at some tables where South, after having been ruffed once, blindly led out the trumps, the contract was actually set; whereas four odd should be easily made if South will but enter the North hand with the King of Diamonds in order to take the Club finesse and establish the later suit before leading three rounds of trumps.

SALENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING
Auction: South opens the bidding with one Spade, which all pass. Although his hand is sufficiently powerful to make an introductory forcing two bid at Auction, it is not here necessary, since his hand is of five cards headed by the top four honors.

Courtesy Free Press Voice Support for Victoria Cold Storage and Terminal Warehouse

The Courtesy Free Press, in its last issue, gives special attention to the subject of refrigeration in its relation to the production of the Comox district as far as the farms are concerned. Editorially, the Free Press says:

"W. W. Duncan, markets director, has absolutely right when he told Comox producers that they are not taking advantage of markets and market opportunities now available. He was right when he told them they should organize for efficient production and distribution."

"But the biggest single factor in the present opportunity of the local farmer seems to be the cold storage plant at Victoria. This plant can process and store perishable produce for months. British Columbia uses carloads and shiploads of produce that is imported, but which can be raised here. Considering that the crops can be kept indefinitely and placed on the market in an orderly

Fishermen on Fraser River Refuse Cannery Prices for Sockeye and Coho Salmon

NEW WESTMINSTER, June 2.—Possibilities of a salmon fishermen's strike on the Fraser River loomed Saturday night, when members of the B.C. Fishermen's Protective Association decided to refuse the cannery's offer of 60 cents a fish for sockeye and 22 1-2 cents for coho salmon.

Representatives of the association will hold a conference with cannery representatives here tonight, when it is possible that the fishermen may offer to accept 74 cents a fish for sockeye, although 75 and 85 cents a fish was the price paid on the Fraser River last season.

The 60 cents offer from the cannery applies only to the Fraser, 50 cents being the price suggested for Northern canneries.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

STUDY BODILY CHEMISTRY—Chemistry has made some wonderful strides within recent years, but even yet chemists are unable to understand many of the chemical processes that take place naturally in the human body. Nature has really accomplished more wonderfully complex and yet complete chemical factories than any which man has been able to devise. Your own body is one of the most interesting chemical factories in existence, and many of the most important physical changes taking place in your body, although of a chemical nature, are only slightly understood by scientists. Even the origin of life has never been satisfactorily explained, but we do know that there is some inherent power in back of habits of living. People who are sick usually make the mistake of trying to find some mysterious remedy, when what is usually necessary is simply to restore the chemical balance of the body to normal.

All real progress in medical science must be along the lines of finding out the various things which interfere with health. One can remain well while working at almost any kind of work or while living in any kind of climate. If sickness develops, it is not because one has lived in a certain place but because one has lived in a certain way. The restoration of health is usually a matter of substituting good habits for bad ones, and a cure can take place and health enjoyed once again when your body laboratory is allowed to work in an uninterrupted manner.

Study your bodily chemistry and especially the chemistry and physiology of digestion. If all of my readers would do this and learn how to live, some of the doctors and undertakers would be looking for other jobs.

Each year the American people spend more than a billion dollars for doctors, druggists and hospitals because of sickness. This is a tax upon ignorance imposed on those who do not understand the laws of nature and do not live a healthful life.

Many wealthy philanthropists give away millions of dollars each year to assist hospitals, doctors and research laboratories to find the cause of disease, and to discover remedies and cures. I hope that some day some of these philanthropists will spend some of this money in making additional investigations into the activity of the human body and discovering the things which interfere with its normal processes.

DEPUTATIONS KEEP MINISTERS BUSY

Hon. W. Atkinson and Hon. N. S. Lougheed Hear Views of Delegations at Abbotsford

ABBOTSFORD, June 3.—Deputations kept Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Public Works, on the hustle here Saturday. A delegation of landowners in the Sumas reclaimed area, who bought their properties previous to 1900, put forth claims for a readjustment of values in conformity with the prices at which Sumas land is now offered, and asked that they be relieved of the capital charge in connection with the reclamation work. Assurance was given that these matters would receive consideration. Delegates from the associated boards of trade of the Fraser Valley intervened in the discussions concerning highway matters and the weakness of the Matsqui dike. The Minister of Agriculture said that $14,000 was spent last year in strengthening the weak places of the dike with rock, and he found that rock alone did not withstand the inroads made by the river. This year all the old automobiles in the neighborhood had been collected and dumped into the breach before piling in the ballast, and he was of the opinion that the dike, reinforced in this way, would hold.

The ministers met the village commissioners in the municipal office, and an understanding was reached with regard to the paving of the provincial highway through Abbotsford.

The dinner was duly reported in the papers. Unfortunately, however, instead of saying that at the conclusion of the dinner "several toasts were drunk," the compositor omitted the word "toasts."

DEBEC, N.B., June 3.—A plebiscite on the question of Government sale of liquor, a scientific investigation of conditions surrounding the construction of hard-surfaced roads, an

Jones, K.C., leader of the provincial Liberal opposition, as main planks in the platform on which his party comes to grips on June 19 with the administration of Hon. J. B. M. SANDWICK ASKS EXTENSION OF WATER SERVICE

Sale of Gasoline on Sunday
Is Sought by Courtenay
Garage Men—Another
Signature Wanted

SEEK CONTROL OF SCHOOL LANDS

COURTENAY, June 3.—Desiring to take advantage of the benefits of the city water service, residents of Sandwick were represented at the City Hall on Monday evening in the persons of Mr. William Duncan and Mr. N. A. Pritchard. The estimated cost of laying a three-inch water main from the present nearest city main was between $800 and $900, to the desired point at Sandwick. The applicants, although wishing to do so, had been unable to finance the project. The water committee will meet the Sandwick committee and draw up an agreement mutually acceptable which is to be submitted to the council at the next meeting.

SUNDAY GAS SERVICE
Six garage men appealed for the repeal of the present by-law which prohibits the sale of gasoline on Sunday. On referring to the city records it was found that there are twelve licensed garage men, and that it would therefore be necessary to obtain the signature of one more in order to have a majority in favor of the change and thus give better service to the public. The matter was accordingly referred back to the garage men.

TOWN PLANNING
A good deal of consideration was given to the question of having the city repolished with a view to the correction of former mistakes. The matter of having a comprehensive plan prepared at some considerable expense, for a guide to future development and the avoidance of mistakes was given considerable discussion when these suggestions from the Town Planning Commission were before the meeting. It was decided to request the commission to ascertain the cost of such undertakings before making a commitment.

SCHOOL GROUNDS
For some time both the school trustees and the city council have been uncertain as to the proper ownership of the school properties. The matter recently came to a head when the school board requested that the high school property be conveyed to the board. After some discussion it was decided to take the matter up with the inspector of municipalities and his reply was before the meeting. He could not quite see the object in transferring the ownership of the property to the school board. The policy usually followed in the province is to hold the land in the name of the municipality, he wrote; and went on to say that in most cases there is a building erected and the municipality has a debenture liability outstanding and a corresponding asset is shown in the balance sheet. Whereas, if the school board holds the title, the municipality then has the liability and this does not show a true balance. He had also taken into consideration the fact that the extramunicipal area is within the school district; but pointed out that the boundaries of the school district could be changed at any time.

Alderman Bell thought that this was a most sensible arrangement; but was of the opinion the council should guarantee to the school board that the land would not be sold to anyone else. The committee is to meet the school board and report further.

CITY GARDEN
"The time has come," said the mayor, "when a hearty vote of thanks would be in order to the horticultural society for the excellent work it has done in beautifying the plot of ground between the City Hall and the fire station. The beautiful rockery and the plants supplied by the society are a decided asset to the city." He understood that shrubs would also be provided and that the society is setting aside a sum of money for upkeep. The vote was unanimous.

WORKSHIPS AND WARSHIPS
The mayor reminded the council of the forthcoming visit of H.M.S. Dauntless to Comox and asked all those citizens who found it convenient to accompany him on an official visit to the warship on Tuesday next.

The British Columbia Safety League wrote at length describing its work and means of financing, and asked the City Council to grant the sum of $25. This assessment was based on population. The league men were satisfied that the league was doing good work and agreed to the request.

EXHAUSTED MAN FOUND ON BANK

Frequent Calls in Bush Finally Bring Help to Lost Employee When Almost Overcome

CARRIED ACROSS CHEMAINUS RIVER

CHEMAINUS, June 3.—Early on Saturday evening, Mr. Trueman Williams and his brother, Mr. L. Williams, who are setting up a tie mill at Fuller's Lake, were back in the woods prospecting for timber, when they heard cries coming from the direction of Chemainus River.

For some time they made their way in the direction from which the cries came, giving answering calls themselves, but their shouts were not answered, so, thinking it probably was a cougar they returned home for guns and a dog. Meeting Mr. V. Jackson, they told him of the possibility of a cougar hunt, and he also went for his dog and gun. In the meantime residents on Fuller's Lake heard the cries, and deciding that it must be some unfortunate out in the woods either lost, or hurt, with night coming on, notified the police.

Constable Hall set off immediately, Mr. C. B. D. Ross and Mr. V. Jackson joining him. Upon arriving at the river they found Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Ankerst-Jones and Messrs. Williams already there. The calls were now plainly heard coming from the far side of the river, and the party climbed down the precipitous cliffs, Messrs. Williams knowing the country well, wading across the icy cold river and up the bank, where they found an elderly man, in the last stages of exhaustion. Together they transported him across the river, and the party finally got him up the cliff. There Constable Hall took him to the home of Cranko, where he is employed. It appeared that the man, J. Kristed, had gone out to find the cows which were roaming in the woods, and had got hopelessly lost. He had wandered many miles down river, calling incessantly, until found.

A letter was received from the city solicitor, advising that the recent amendment to the Duncan-North Cowichan School Act, proposed by the North Cowichan council, did not sufficiently protect the interests of the city, and advising that the city do not agree to the proposal. The matter was laid on the table to be dealt with on the return of Mayor Prevost to duty.

A resolution was adopted, asking the police rigidly to enforce the provisions of the Streets Regulation By-law, dealing with the display of merchandise on the sidewalks.

The bid of Pemberton & Son, Vancouver, for $6,000 worth of local improvement bonds, was accepted. The bonds bear interest at 5 per cent, and the price realized was $6,82. Bids were also received from the B.C. Bond Corporation and the Royal Financial Corporation.

Comox Looks to Great Grain Display at Regina With Hope of Success

COURTENAY, June 3.—With a view to interesting the district or individuals in the World's Grain Exhibition, a meeting was held on Monday night. It was agreed that it would be a great thing for the district if one or more of the large prizes offered could be captured by the Comox district. The necessity for a high quality foundation seed of highest quality was pointed out, and it was suggested that the promoters should have a supply available for distribution among those who would undertake to grow for the big show. The importance of immediate action was clearly shown, as the exhibition is to take place in July, 1932, which means that seed must be put in the ground this Spring to produce the desired acclimatized seed to be sown in 1931 for production of the seeds for selection for the fair. The various classes suitable to this district were discussed at great length. It was decided to call a public meeting in the near future to ascertain the extent of further interest. Among those present were Messrs. Wallace McPhee, E. F. Thomas, B. S. French, J. Aven, H. Morrison, R. M. Halliday, G. W. Edwards and G. R. Bates.

FISHING REPORT AT COWICHAN LAKE

LAKE COWICHAN, June 3.—Although the weather was most unpropitious for visitors and campers, it seems that those who braved the cold and wet were most successful in the way of fishing, several large catches being brought in. The North Arm rewarded Messrs. Young and Postle (Victoria) with three fine beauties; Messrs. J. C. McNeil and James Jones (Victoria) were rewarded with a basket of thirty fish; Dr. Duck caught several splendid fish, one being five and three-quarter pounds. Colonel Humble-Birkett and Major Montell were again rewarded with good catches.
